

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A memory module is described which, externally, has the functionality of DDR SDRAMs and contains two groups of conventional SDRAMs. A conversion device provides for the 5 conversion of clock signals, commands, and data. The conversion device contains a changeover switch, a delay locked loop and buffer memory for addresses and commands and also for the data, which are driven in a suitable manner by the delay locked loop.

REL/vs